RETAIN OLD RELIGIOUS RITE

Quapaw Indians Stick to Form of Worship of Which Feast Forms an Important Part

In the vicinity of Devil's Hollow, several miles east of Quapaw, Okla., there is a wigwam-shaped church building located miles from any white man's habitation, and a long distance from the nearest Indian domicile, where the Quapaw full-blooded Indians congregate regularly to worship the Great Spirit in silence. They sit about a tiny fire that has been built on a stone base in the middle of the dirt floor, from Saturday night at sundown till Sunday noon, fasting and praying, but never speaking a word.

A feature of their church meetings is the feast that follows the fast and religious rites. The meal is served in a little mess house nearby, and when the services are over the quaws, who have slipped out a few hours before the time to close, are ready with the dinner and all sit down to partake of the food that is always a part of the program.

The church was built many years ago, so that the residents have a place to worship, a custom still kept up, regardless of the fact that there is no preacher, no choir, nothing to call them but the religious spirit of the Indian. Chief Quapaw owns nearly 1,000 acres of land in this region, but when he was offered $20,000 for a few acres of it that lay in the city of Quapaw, which was named after him, he refused because, he said, he knew the white man would try to get the money, but could not get the land away from him.

DRAWS MUSIC FROM A SAW

New Yorker Gets Startling and Pleasing Effects by Using the Tool as a Violin

The conventional saw has recently appeared in a new role—namely, as a musical instrument. Indeed, one of the leading novelties of a current New York musical revue is the musical carpenter who uses his saw as a violin.

After protracted experimentation and untiring practice, Sam Moore of New York city has succeeded in getting very agreeable music from ordinary carpenter's saw, according to the Scientific American. He holds the saw handle between his legs holds the tip of the saw in one hand and works the usual violin bow with the other. The vibrating steel blade emits soft, appealing notes, the pitch of which is varied by changing the curvature of the blade.

All sorts of queer effects can be obtained by the adept manipulation of the blade; in fact, the music derived by this means can hardly be described. If anything, it resembles the human voice; then again it has the queer wail of the Hawaiian Ukulele. All in all, the effect is startling and pleasing.

New Vegetable Ivory

A recent number of the French bulletin of the colonial office gives a description of a new form of vegetable ivory, which can be used in European industry in place of the corozo. This new substance is produced by the kernel of an edible fruit growing upon a palm of the upper Senegal-Niger territory, the Borassus ethiopum. The kernel is seven or eight centimeters long and five centimeters broad, thus permitting the cutting of balls or plates of considerable size to be used in marquetry, or the making of dominoes, piano keys, buttons, etc. The kernel becomes extremely hard when thoroughly dried. As a proof of this it is stated that it is at the present moment being used as building stones for making of the houses of native chiefs, while it is expected that the future cathedral at Dakar will have tiled pillars constructed of these same kernels.—Scientific American Monthly.

Seen in Piccadilly.

A rough little pony in a coter's cart stood near a mansion in Piccadilly on a chilly morning. A pile of logs for firewood was being unloaded and the pony was enjoying the warmth of a somewhat unusual loin-cloth flung over his back. It consisted of a handsome edging of fur attached to a musquash coat, which was seen to belong to a woman who was shifting the wood, who was coatless while she worked. So the little rough pony was sharing what was known a year ago as "munition overalls"—because these handsome fur coats were the sign and signature of the girl munition workers, whose sudden enormously increased incomes enabled them to realize the ambitions of their life—a fur coat as good as you please. And very handsome they were, and very well they became the owners—and very contented the pony looked.

Serbian Adopt English Words

From an Oxonian in Belgrade, writing to the London Spectator, we hear of the excursions of English words into Serbia. Some of them are slightly Serbified, but easily recognized. For example, "aeroplane," "budget," "klub," "miking," "abstrak," "drednot." "Transport" has made its way unattended. "Submarine" has come in from the French in the form of "sumaren." Tanks are "tankovi." No interpretation is necessary of the Serbian form of a world word, "fordovi." "What region on the earth is not full of your labor." These are war words, but "djentlemanski" entered Belgrade before the war. So, as communications between peoples increase, alien words in many languages in many languages are naturalized.—New York Times.

A FOREGONE CONCLUSION

Apparently there were persons of intelligence who expected the Supreme Court to declare the eighteenth amendment unconstitutional, but such expectation could hardly have been more than a mere hopeful state of mind, for there was never the least real probability that the great Court would do so. As the eighteenth amendment was adopted according to the methods provided by the Federal Constitution, there was no reason to expect the Supreme Court to find fault; for the Supreme Court, a Federal establishment, is and has been inevitably inclined to support every assertion of Federal power, old or new. The Supreme Court has ruled in favor of State as opposed to Federal claims in former times, but for many years its rulings have invariably tended in the opposite direction.

The argument that the eighteenth amendment violates the Bill of Rights and gives to the Federal government police powers belonging to the States might have been very gravely considered by the Supreme Court prior to 1850, for up to that time the States which created the Federal government remained stronger than their creation; but under the present conditions, with Federal supremacy long established, the Supreme Court could only be expected to consider whether the eighteenth amendment, finding that it was so adopted, and finding that it was so adopted, and finding that it was so adopted, to support it and proclaim it the law of the land. Although the eighteenth amendment undoubtedly further expands the Federal power, the principle involved is by no means new. Essentially the issue was that of Federal supremacy, and this issue was fought out and decided in favor of the Federal government in the Civil War—the war for the right of States to withdraw from a Union which the States had created and voluntarily joined. Federal supremacy was then fully established, and thereafter no State could successfully claim the right of any independent action whatsoever that conflicted with the Federal government's will. "Concurrent power" with reference to State legislation in connection with the eighteenth amendment is therefore but little more than a polite phrase.

The prohibition amendment is established. The saloon and the sale of strong drinks are at an end. But the Supreme Court's decision still leaves with Congress the power to define "intoxicating liquors," and for this reason the opinion has been promptly expressed that it may yet be possible to make legal the manufacture of beer and light wines and their sale in restaurants, hotels and groceries. Whether such a possibility does exist, whether such manufacture and sale shall receive legal sanction, remains to be seen. In any event prohibition is the law of the land and must and will be enforced, notwithstanding the fact that it is unpopular with a large section of the public.

COMMON SENSE AMERICAN

Senator New of Indiana, gives us this interesting viewpoint of the Republican nominee for President:

"Harding is a plain, sensible, capable American citizen, aman with a big heart and wide understanding, who knows the people of this country and who has his ear to the ground on the problems confronting the nation."

"Harding is no master mind. There are very few master minds in this country. The nation is fortunate and the party should rejoice that Harding is no master mind. Of master mindism the country has had enough."

"You will see a common-sense American get into the White House with practical knowledge of constitutional representative and popular government. You will see him surround himself with the brainiest cabinet the country has ever seen since the days of William McKinley. They will be John Hays and Elihu Root and Philander C. Knox in the Harding cabinet."

"The future President will not be seeing visions and hearing 'voices in the air.' He will be seeing things as they are in these United States; and will be listening to advice on the problems confronting him from the greatest minds with which he can surround himself.

"Harding will enter the White House with a feeling of deep concern over conditions to be met and a deep sense of responsibility to meet them properly. He knows now that in the great reconstruction to come as soon as the country passes from the control of the master mind, he cannot do the job alone. And he also knows that Congress, the legislative branch, must take a co-operative part in the work. Harding understands Congress and its responsibilities. Wilson has fought Congress and has ignored its importance in the government of this country."

"I know you hear a few disgruntled men saying today that the party might have done better. It could not have done better, and within a few days the men who are inclined to be fearful will have their coats off and be out for Harding and Coolidge in good old fashioned Republican style. We are on our way back in this country to government by the people for the people."

THE SUFFRAGE VOTE

It is pointed out by the New York Tribune, in speaking of woman suffrage amendment, that the matter of ratification it would seem that party responsibility might bear some relation to party power. The figures on this point are, that of thirty-five states which have ratified, twenty-seven have Republican legislatures, five have Democratic legislatures. Of the states that defeated the amendment one, Delaware, has a Republican legislature, and six have Democratic legislatures.

Thus, excluding the three states in which the legislatures are divided, out of a total of thirty Republican states twenty-seven have ratified, one has rejected and two have yet to meet. Out of fifteen Democratic states five have ratified, six have rejected and four have yet to meet.

MUST GIVE PROOF OF PROMISE TO HELP

In an affidavit of defense filed to the suit brought against Thomas Elliott and Jacob Elliott, executors of the estate of the late Thomas Lilley, by Isabelle Simon, housekeeper for Mr. Lilley during the last years of his life, the defendants aver they have no information regarding the alleged promise which the plaintiff says Mr. Lilley made to her that he would "leave her enough so that she would not have to work any more." The defendants state that they will require proof of this alleged promise at the trial of the case.

The executors of the Lilley estate admit that Mrs. Simon was employed by their late uncle as his housekeeper and they say she was diligent and faithful servant during the many years she remained in his employ. In addition to her wages they aver that the decedent kept her son, Joseph Simon, who is partially paralyzed. In addition to this he gave her a cow worth $125 and paid her $400 which was lost or stolen from her. Mrs. Simon brought suit against the Lilley estate recently, to recover $50,000 averring the same was due her under the alleged promises made to her by Thomas Lilley during his life time. He died January 5, 1920 leaving an estate estimated as being worth $2,500,000.

NO SYSTEM CAN BEAT BANK

But a Certain Old Lady Surely "Threw a Scare" Into the Monte Carlo Authorities.

Lord Rosslyn and other frequenters of Monte Carlo, who are said to be racking their brains to invent a system to "break the bank," may as well save themselves the trouble, for as M. Blanc, founder of the gaming tables, once truly said: "Red wins some times, black other, but Blanc (white) always, and in defiance of every system I have invented." "There never has been a system," the director of the tables at Monte Carlo once declared, "and I have seen every system tried, from the London system to the French system, and all have failed. The only system that has succeeded is the system of the tables for years. She had noticed that at roulette certain numbers always followed each other. Thus if the number 20 was in the number 100 others to him, 20 was certain to be next; and if 20 was in the same position 32 would surely follow. After checking her observations day after day, she began to play, and won at all 30,000 francs, breaking the bank three times. The officials were in despair. M. Blanc was called for from Paris, and, as a desperate resource, he persuaded the old lady to part with her secret for 70,000 francs down.

"The secret was absolutely simple after all. The roulette wheel had become warped by the heat, and was not quite round, so that when spun from a certain point, it invariably stuck at a certain other point."

TURKISH MOSQUE ON WHEELS

Enabled Pilgrims to Mecca to Conduct Their Devotions While on Way to Holy City.

The "chapel railway coaches, with seating accommodation for 90, now fitted to certain long-distance express in America, are not entirely a novelty.

A "mosque car" used to be run on the railway built 15 years ago between Damascus and Mecca the capital being subscribed mainly by pious Mussulmans. All the rest of the rolling stock was obtained from countries outside Turkey, but the mosque car was built in Constantinople.

It was externally distinguished by a minaret about eight feet high projecting from the roof; the walls were inscribed with verses of the Koran, and at one end a large compass was hung, indicating the direction of the holy city.

Pilgrims to Mecca were thus able to conduct their devotions with full pomp and ceremony during the three days' journey from Damascus.—London Tit-Bits.

Electricity to Locate Oil.

New uses for electricity are constantly appearing. One of the latest is the detection of crude oil in the earth instead of boring for it. It is stated that crude petroleum has been located electrically in the shallow oil-field near Corsicana, Tex., and that further tests are being made around Burkburnett. A series of batteries is used for the test, the negative terminal being connected to a wire which is dropped into a dry waterhole, valley or indentation, and the positive terminal being connected to a "land wire," which is used to make contact at various points on the surface of the field investigated. It is stated that the higher electrical resistance of oil compared with other constituents of the earth, permits it to be located by the reduced deflection of a sensitive instrument in the circuit.

Pulp Yields 20 Commodities.

Twenty commodities manufactured from near-silk made from the pulp of fir, spruce and hemlock are being exhibited by the West Coast Lumbermen's association in Portland, Ore. The exhibit was prepared in the United States forests products laboratory of the University of Wisconsin and is being sent to all parts of the country for inspection. The commodities include silk cloth, silk stockings, gunpowder, paper absorbent (a substitute for absorbent cotton), paper bagging, rope and twine, linoleum, shingles, reed fiber for furniture and matting, paper lath, rug yarn, paper webbing and phonograph records.—Indianapolis News

War Brides Awaken.

Incompatibility of American and French customs has caused 12,000 of approximately 50,000 French war brides to return to France, according to Mrs. Reginald H. Johnson, president of the recently organized L'Espoir Franco-American club in Pittsburgh. The club, formed at the suggestion of Mlle. Odette de Bouglon of Paris, who was in Pittsburgh recently, is expected to broaden the interests of French girls who became the brides of Americans overseas, and to make them contented in their new homes.

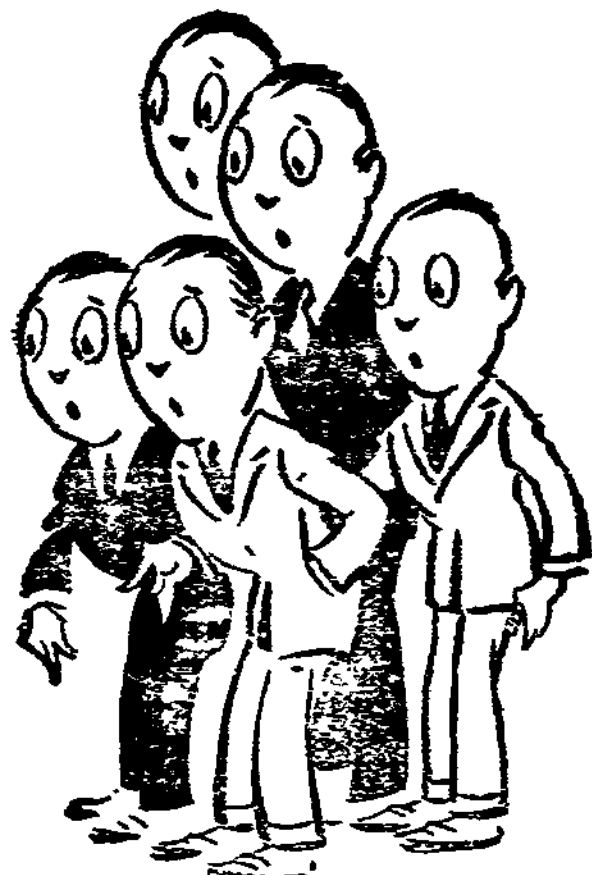

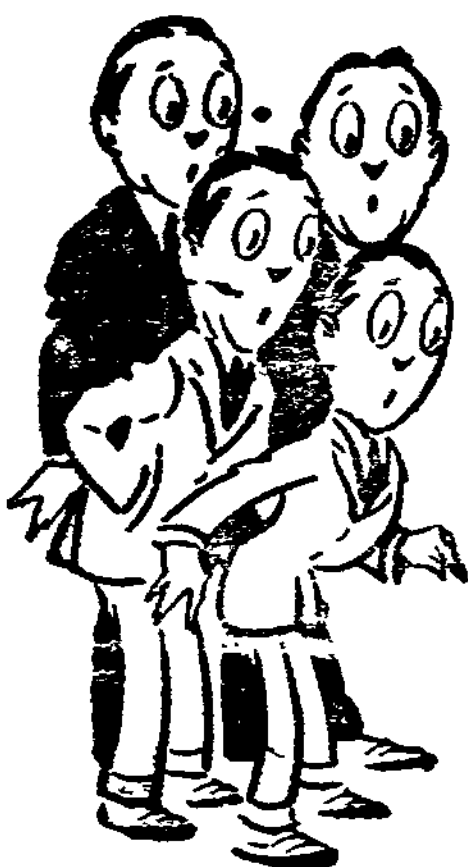

Pictures Show Effects on Tires.

So motion pictures of the type that have amused movie fans by slowing down swiftly moving bodies to the point where every action may be analyzed have been utilized by a tire company for a scientific study of just what happens when a heavily loaded motor-truck climbs a curb, drops off an elevation or bumps over a railroad track.

This is the first time this very valuable form of photography has been used by a tire company. Among the questions the pictures will aid in solving are the effects of heavy blows on highways, trucks, loads and tires.

This Sale of "Alco" suits will be a real "eye opener" in every sense. It will be greeted by the men of Pittsburgh with open-eyed amazement.

Even in normal times Pittsburgh has never witnessed a sensational offering of men's suits like this. Coming now, it is the master-stroke in the Kaufmann & Baer drive to bring prices down.

"Alco" clothes need no introduction here. They long ago made an enviable reputation for reliability and smart tailoring. "Alco" clothes are the product of the largest and longest established manufacturers of men's clothing in Philadelphia. A backward Spring season--and a retarding of normal production brought about an accumulation of several thousand suits.

The Kaufmann & Baer Store, with immense cash resources always available, made a real "scoop" in taking over every made-up "Alco" suit in stock and offering this large stock at less than wholesale costs ---or about HALF regular prices.

Hundreds of these "Alco" suits will be found in our own stocks---still bearing their original price marks of $45 to $85. These, of course, will also go at the new sale price.

This enormous purchase is a complete stock of men's clothing in itself---offering a wide range of models for men of ALL builds.

Detail description is impossible---but picture in your mind any large, up-to-the-minute stock of men's clothing, and you have some indication of the variety and scope of this great sale. Materials cover a comprehensive range--flannels, worsteds, cassimeres, chevots, tweeds, serges, silk mixtures and tropical worsteds.

Particular attention is called to the fact that navy blue and grey serge suits are offered as low as $23.

Stout men, slim men, short men, regular men ---ALL MEN---can be "suited" in this sale. Single and double-breasted, plain and conservative and an almost limitless assortment of models young men like. Plenty of "staple" suits that many men wear the year 'round.

Is it Found in Your Home?

A great many people thinks that "Kitchen Economy" means cooking without waste and they would be partly right—but only partly.

True Economy means making every dollar spent produce its utmost return in value. That's why

WASTED ENERGY OF THE SUN

Only a Minute Fraction of Its Tremendous Heat Strikes the Earth and Becomes Useful.

A digression on the energy of the past sun may be permitted. All that the earth has caught, for all the millions of years that it has existed, is the merest fraction of what the sun has radiated in the same time, according to a lecture by Sir Oliver Lodge, reported in the Scientific American.

The earth to the sun is like a printer's full stop at a distance of ten feet from a halfpenny. Some of the radiation from a globe one inch in diameter falls on the spot one one-hundredth inch in diameter ten feet away, but that little speck only catches the hundred and fifty millionth part of the whole. What has become of the rest of the solar energy? It must still be careering through space. The ether is perfectly transparent and only when it encounters matter will the radiation be mopped up and turned into heat.

Not our sun only, but all the millions of other suns, have likewise been always pouring out radiation into space. Is there any hope of catching and utilizing it? I know not. In spite of all this constant flood of energy space is cold; very near absolute zero. The reservoir is so enormous that all these taps, running for ages, have made no impression on it, have not raised the level a perceptible amount.

HISTORY REVEALED BY NAMES

By Them It Is Possible to Ascertain What Races Have Inhabited Different Districts.

In the earliest days of the human family, all known persons, places and groups of human beings must have had names by which they were recognized.

The study of these names and their survival in civilization enables us often to ascertain what races inhabited districts now peopled by those of entirely different stock.

The names of mountains and rivers in many parts of England, for instance, are Celtic.

Ancient local names are, as a rule, purely descriptive. A river is called by some word which merely signifies "the water," a mountain may have a name which means "the peak," "the castle," "the point."

English place names generally state some simple fact, and often denote no more than property; the name of a town or hamlet being formed by adding "ton" or "ham" to the name of some early landholder.

Quite often a bit of even half-humorous description will survive in such a name, as when a stony, starved and weedy district is called Starvacre.

Parisian Mementoes of Napoleon.

The statue of Henri of Navarre on the Pont-Neuf, the oldest bridge in Paris, is a memento of Napoleon, for it was cast from the bronze of the emperor's statue which was torn from the top of the Vendôme column in 1814. This column was erected to honor the victories of the great soldier, his martial deeds being depicted in a spiral strip which covers the surface of the pillar. His figure, in the robes of a Roman emperor, has since been placed at the top. The Exchange bridge was erected by Napoleon and still bears his monogram, the arches. The famous colonnades of the Louvre district are his work. He designed them in memory of his native Corsica, where that type of architecture is common.

Overcoming Insomnia.

The treatment of insomnia or sleeplessness is a simple matter. Psychoanalysis or a physical examination discloses the real source of the disorder.

Insomnia has its foundation in loss of general health, worries, bad habits, need of ventilation and sunlight. Retire early at night, even if you cannot sleep. This restores the normal habit. Take a glassful of hot milk, a few crackers and a hot bath before you retire. A cold pack to the head and a hot water bottle to the feet help to woo slumber. A triple effervescent bromide tablet or two in a glassful of water before bedtime will usually soothe the sufferer back into the land of Nod and a good eight hours of sleep.

Diamond stealing in the South African mines is becoming precarious business. The blacks still swallow them or hide them in self-inflicted wounds, but these methods no longer suffice. Coolidge X-ray tubes are so mounted in a frame as to illuminate the whole body of the stripped native standing before them. The entire body of the hundreds of miners can thus be brought into view in the fluoroscope in a few seconds, and any diamond present, even if behind thick bones, is quickly detected. The glow of the diamond under the X-rays, as well as its dense opaqueness, aids in detection, it is said.

Flying Casualties.

Revised figures from the war department show that there were but 533 casualties among American aviators in Europe during the war. Of this number 491 were among aviators with the A. E. F. and the remainder among aviators on duty with the British, French and Italian armies. The casualties are classified as follows: Killed in combat, 208; prisoners, 145; wounded in action, 62; killed in action, 41; missing in action, 29; injured in action, 25; lost, 13.

LIVE APART FROM THE WORLD

People of Northern Korea as Ignorant as Were Their Ancestors Thousands of Years Ago.

Many of the natives in the north of Korea have never seen a white man. A bulletin of the National Geographic society says that they are living among the hills today much as did their ancestors centuries ago, worshipping mythical gods in the rocks and caves on every mountain top, keeping their women in semi-slavery, and dying in ignorance of the world beyond their narrow confines. After the Russo-Japanese war of 1904 the country was opened to foreigners, and the exploration of the northern part progressed by leaps and bounds, until the only extensive unknown area lay along the north central boundary, between the Tumen and Yalu rivers.

The old walls of the ancient city of Musan bear five centuries of history. Few white men have wandered inland to the gates of this city, and except for a few stragglers it lies unknown to the western world. The great central palace or reception hall, remains intact and close by, in palatial style is the temple guest-house. The smaller public buildings, the gates, the watch towers and, most of all, the walls themselves, have their own peculiar fascination, telling their own story or adding a chapter to that of its neighbor.

The Koreans believe the blood of a deer or any wild animal, if drunk when warm, to be a splendid tonic. Tigers' claws, whiskers, bones and teeth are especially valuable, and preparations made from these materials were often given to soldiers before a battle or any especially hazardous enterprise, since they were believed to induce great bravery.

ETIQUETTE AT FIJI TABLE

Guest Would Do Well to Familiarize Himself With the Rules, Which Are Exceedingly Strict.

If ever you go to Fiji and are asked to attend a public dinner, pray be very careful how you behave or it may cost you your life, is the injunction of a writer in London Answers. A public dinner in Fiji is a grand affair, and all the guests give a hand in feeding the oven or stirring the pot. A floor of clean leaves is covered with coconuts, on which are heaped baked taro and yams—like a large potato—to the amount of several tons. The next tier comprises a well oiled "pudding in green leaves" called "vakalolo." Baked turtles are next heaped on top of these puddings or two or three hogs baked whole.

At one public dinner in Fiji there were fifty tons of yams, fifteen tons of vakalolo puddings, seventy turtles, five carloads of yagons and 200 tons of uncooked yams.

A chief, having eaten a coconut without offering a piece to one of his followers, the latter went over to the enemy and singled out his former master in their next battle. Asking for mercy, the stern reply was, "Don't you recollect the nut at the last public dinner? For that you die."

Another chief once sat with his father-in-law and on passing a dish of cooked fish, he broke off a bit of its tail. A dark scowl covered the relative's face, and before many hours were passed, he slew his son-in-law, having first intimated that he was insulted by being offered a broken tail.

Pitcher Plant's Curious Leaves.

In the swamp regions of India and China a herbaceous plant is found which has very curious leaves. Each leaf has the mid-rib prolonged to a great extent, far beyond the leaf proper, terminating in a very singular pitcher, from which the plant derives its common name of "pitcher plant." This again terminates in a lid which is regarded by botanists as the true blade of the leaf.

In this pitcher a fluid is found which comes from the plant itself and is probably necessary for its nourishment. This fluid, which contains some poisons, varies much in quantity, sometimes only a drop or two, but often there is enough to drown any inquisitive insect which may venture inside, and such insects are frequently found in the pitcher.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Greatest of all monuments of Emperor Napoleon are the two arches of triumph, L'Arc de Triomphe and L'Arc du Carrousel, both of which were erected by the devoted Parisians that all the world might know the military supremacy which was theirs under Napoleon. Equal to these in importance is the tomb of the emperor, Les Invalides, which he decided should be a home for aged and disabled soldiers, but which the Parisians turned into a great museum to house countless trophies of his wars and articles of his personal equipment, as well as the body of the national hero, who wished to be buried on the banks of the Seine amidst his beloved "children."

Royal Needlewoman.

The Royal School of Art Needlework, South Kensington, London, Eng., has had committed to its keeping for exhibition purposes a magnificent piece of early rose point lace, attributed to the needle of Mary Queen of Scots, and given to the convent of the Irish nuns of Ypres by James II., and also a set of vestments in a wonderful Italian brocade of the sixteenth century. The brocade was worn by the Archduchess Isabella, daughter of Philip II. of Spain.

Dog's Mary Faith.

The faults of the dog are many. He is valuer than man, singularly greedy of notice, singularly intolerant of ridicule, suspicious like the deaf, jealous like the drunk, and radically devoid of truth. The day of an intelligent small dog is a day in the manufacture and laborious communication of falsehood; he lies with his tail, he lies with his eye, he lies with his protesting paw and when he rattles his dish or scratches at the door his purpose is other than appears.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Lines.

What fiber man—or rather woman—first wove into cloth, no one knows. The oldest fabric preserved for modern study is linen. Six thousand years ago and for thousands of years thereafter, Egyptian skill in weaving flax fiber was almost unimpaired; chemical tests and the microscope are required to distinguish some of the royal mummy linens from silk. The spread and development of civilization brought in other fibers, but linen is still esteemed the finest known cloth for uses which range from table napery to airplane wings.

Vision That Counts.

The habit of looking on your neighbor's life with some such interest as you do on your own is a key that, as long as you live, will unlock larger worlds to you continually.—Exchange.

To count as a real leader you must exercise resourcefulness. A modern danger is that which teaches the child to go to the shop with everything. This leads to the crushing of ingenuity. The farmer boy is compelled by the very nature of his environment to depend upon his own resources for the many unexpected things that occur. He sometimes envies his city cousin who never concerns himself about repairs, but seldom recognizes that necessity is making himself the better man. The unexpected is sure to happen. How can it be otherwise when there are so many minds with conflicting motives in the world? It will not be possible for you to escape trials when you attempt to do things.—Exchange.

Famous Bibles.

The first Greek Bible was the Septuagint, thus called because of the employment of 70 (or 72) translators in making it from the Hebrew. The first great Latin Bible was translated by St. Jerome, in the fifth century and called the Vulgate, from vulgare, to make known. Several English translations were made before the authorized or King James version in 1611, so-called because made under direction of James I. Cranmer's, or the Great Bible, printed in enormous size so that it might be read by the people in churches, had been published in 1539, and afterward revised by seven bishops as the "Bishops' Bible."

Have Thought for Deities. While repairing a temple the Chinese cover up the eyes of the idols, in order that the deities may not be offended at the sight of disorder.

Neighborhood Characters.

Every neighborhood has some woman who is recognized as the information bureau and official news agency.—Archibon Globe.

Bitter Sweet.

Women swallow at one mouthful the lie that flatters and drink drop by drop the truth that is bitter.—Denis Diderot.

Smoked When Making Laws.

In the seventeenth century smoking was allowed in the British house of commons.

Nest 100 Years Old.

Sparrow's nest over 100 years old has been found in the trunk of an old ash tree in Cumberland, England.

Revised by a Parvenue.

Children rush in where climbers fear to tread.—Judge.

Expensive Lawmaking Body.

France has the most expensive parliament. It costs $1,500,000 a year.

The New U. S. Grainless Rubber Solid Truck Tire Is Here

MOTOR truck owners and operators who are interested in the efficient and economical operation of their trucks will be glad to know that we are now ready to supply them with the new U. S. Grainless Rubber Solid Truck Tire.

This tire overcomes the two great causes of solid tire waste—splitting and base separation.

Splitting—by removing the grain which allowed splits to develop in the old type of solid.

Base separation—by affecting a chemical union between the steel and the rubber. A positive permanent advance in solid tire manufacture.

As representatives of U. S. Tires in this city, we are in constant touch with the latest developments in tire progress.

Bring your truck tire problems to us.

When a motor truck comes to our Service Station, it goes away with the kind of tire that was built for it—that will give its owner the best and most economical tire service possible—or we want to know the reason why.

In purchasing a new truck consult us about the type of tires to specify.

INSURANCE COMPANIES MAY WITHDRAW BUSINESS

It is reported that unless Bentleyville is very soon equipped with some efficient means of fighting fires, the property owners of the borough will have some difficulty in keeping their homes insured. An insurance man in business there said, after the fire of last Friday, that he feared the company which he represented would withdraw from the territory. Bentleyville, and not accept any new policies or renewal of old ones until ample fire protection has been provided.

TO MAKE DRIVE ON COAL PROFITEERS

The United States Department of Justice has ordered a drive on profiteers in bituminous coal and all federal District Attorneys are ordered to give special attention to charges of such profiteering and to seek indictments where investigation warranted. It is pointed out that the price of coal runs from 7 to $11 a ton at the mines, with a maximum cost of production of $2.75 per ton.

CHARLEROI WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA. FRIDAY, JUNE 18, 1920

TWO CENTS

CONVENTION ATTENDANCE IS GOOD IN SPITE OF DIFFICULTIES

Election of County Officers to Take Place This Afternoon

WILL CLOSE THIS EVENING

Overcoming the difficulties of transportation many delegates to the Sunday school convention now in session at the High school auditorium arrived from the remote parts of the county. The registrars had checked up 243 delegates last evening and this number was further augmented this morning by the arrival of an additional number, and it is expected that the total registration will be approximately about 300. Had it not been for the extremely unfavorable weather it is believed the attendance would have reached the 500 mark.

The sessions yesterday afternoon and evening followed the outlined program, and the various features proved to be very interesting to the delegates. In the afternoon divisional conferences were held, which embraced practically every phase of Sunday school activities, all of which proved to be very helpful. The evening topics were Religious Education by Paul Dundore, and Graded Organization and Instruction by Mrs. John H. Bailey.

The sessions opened this morning at 8:30 o'clock, in charge of W. S. James, vice president, who was called to the chair Thursday afternoon because of the absence of President Kunkleman, who was called to Atlantic City by the Insurance Company which he represents in the county. After the opening exercises A. K. Stokebrand, of Philadelphia, spoke on "Service Through Preparation," after which a Children's Division Conference was held, and followed later by another divisional conference.

At noon the convention adjourned for lunch, while the teacher training dinner was served at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church, with a toast given by Prof. G. F. Dunkelberger.

This afternoon at 2:30 during the business session of the convention it was anticipated that the election of officers would take place, at which time the following ticket proposed by the Board of Control would be selected.

President—Dr. J. W. Manon, Charleroi.

Vice presidents—Rev. John H. Debolt, McDonald; Rev. E. L. Eagle, West Middletown; Rev. Huber Ferguson, D. D., Washington; W. S. James, Charleroi; C. E. Towner, Monongahela.

Field Secretary—To be chosen. Recording secretary—Rev. E. A. Cile, Washington.

Corresponding secretary—Miss Frances A. Cooper, Monongahela. Treasurer—Geo. P. Kunkleman, Washington.

Children's Division superintendent—Mrs. Roy M. Hazlett, California. Young People's Division—Mrs. Naomi Ewing, Monongahela.

RECOVER BODY OF
CAPTAIN HODGSON

The body of Capt. Lincoln Hodgson, who commanded the steamer Vesta which was sunk in the storm of last Sunday, was recovered Wednesday afternoon. All the bodies of those who lost their lives in that disaster have now been recovered. Work of salvaging the steamer will be delayed on account of the raise in the river, which has been caused by the heavy rains of the past twenty-four hours.

Following the sports a short literary program, consisting of a reading by Mrs. Thos. Pepper, a short address by Rev. Debolt of the Bentleyville church, music by the White Pigeon orchestra and interesting talks by former teachers and pupils were given.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, D. R. Staley; secretary, Mrs. S. E. Shihar; treasurer, J. B. Carson.

Adult—Prof. N. G. Parke, McDonald. Administrative—Prof. E. E. Moore, Washington.

For the Older Boys' and Girls' Conference to be held tomorrow, over 100 delegates have so far registered and paid their fees.

Confer With Receivers on Speers-Coal Center Highway

A conference between the members of the board of commissioners of Washington county, the County Controller and County Engineer, in connection with a committee from the Charleroi Board of Trade, composed of Messrs. Tom P. Sloan, Harry W. Scott and M. T. Crowley, and the Receivers of the Pittsburgh Railway Company was held in Pittsburgh on Thursday, with reference to the improvement of the Speers-Coal Center road. The Receivers of the railway company expressed themselves as being willing to co-operate with the county and state in the improvement of the highway, and said they were willing to move their tracks in order to eliminate grade crossings, setting farther, that the expense of a new road bed should be taken care of by the county or the state. As to a new right of way along certain portions of the line the receivers suggested that a trade would be offered to property owners, thus making it a give and take affair. Any arrangement proposed by the United States Court, under whose jurisdiction the receivers are working, but it is not believed there would be any trouble in this respect.

As a result of the conference all parties concerned believed that something would be done very soon which would allow the highway to be placed under contract for improvement.

MAPLE AVE. HOUSES ARE ENDANGERED

Three houses on Maple avenue, overlooking Lincoln avenue extension and Maple creek, are in danger of being wrecked due to the moving of the hillside toward the street below. These houses are a frame owned by a Mr. Davis of Canonsburg and occupied by S. J. Nutting a frame house owned and occupied by John McClintock and a brick and cement block house owned by Belle Vernon parties and occupied by Prof. Davis of Douglas Business College.

The condition of these houses became dangerous Thursday evening, when the pressure became so great from the moving mass that the rear wall in the Nutting home was pushed over, the McClintock house foundations slightly moved, and the water and gas mains broke. This morning big cracks appeared on the interior walls of the Davis home, and apparently the entire situation is becoming more dangerous.

Mr. Nutting and family are moving out of the house they occupy and will store their furniture until they can find another home, while the other two families are hunting places in which to live.

From appearances it looks as if the entire face of the hill at that point will eventually land on Lincoln avenue, many cracks appearing on Maple avenue as well as on the property in the rear of the homes. The hill facing Lincoln avenue at that point is very steep and once the slide starts downward it will likely scar to the rocks.

PLANS ARE OUTLINED FOR THE SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

HOW THEY REDUCE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

The Elizabeth Herald is responsible for this one: "A Braddock man bought a suit of clothes in a Pittsburgh department store last week—a fifty-dollar suit marked down to $47. The next day his wife, in going over the suit preparing to put it away found three tickets of a former price on the suit, calling for $26.89, the former selling price of the suit. He was a former member of Co. I of Elizabeth, and dropped in to see us, when he showed us the tags."

Atlantic City Trip for Service Men Now in Hospitals

4-MINUTE MEN TO TAKE PART

A meeting of the Committees for the Salvation Army Drive for June 24th, 25th and 26th, was held Tuesday evening, June 15th.

Mr. Bowles of Pittsburgh, one of the big workers of the Salvation Army was present and gave some very interesting facts concerning the work and its needs. He told of the work being done by the Salvation Army for disabled service men. A notable feature he mentioned was that of a Special Excursion to Atlantic City for them, also of maintaining a permanent place at Atlantic City for these boys. He would like to have the names of any such local boys who are confined in hospitals, so that the Salvation Army may look after them. Mr. Bowles spoke also of the good work being done at their Rescue and Industrial Homes and also of a Day Nursery. There are non-Secularian Institutions. In 1919 the Salvation Army reached eighteen million of people.

Mr. Lancaster of Pittsburgh, the publicity man for the Salvation Army was present and outlined the work to be undertaken, such as church announcements, newspaper publicity and former four-minute men in the churches and theatres. He said that it means work for all if this drive is to be a success.

Roy I. Carson, Chairman, appointed the following committees.

Factory and Large Advance Committee—J. E. Masters, Chairman. J. B. Schaffer, Frank Riva, J. D. Ryan, Carl Mountier, George W. Moody.

Girls' Committee for Tags—Mrs. William High.

Women's Committee for Boots and Doughnuts—Mrs. C. C. Wright. Church Committee—Rev. John R. Furson, Michael Crowley.

A meeting of all chairmen and workers is called for Tuesday evening June 22 at 8:30 P. M. at the Municipal Building.

HEAVY TRAFFIC IS QUITE A SURPRISE

"I'm surprised. I didn't think there was so much river traffic in the world," said Col. M. L. Walker, division United States Engineer, with headquarters in Cincinnati, as he recently viewed a long line of boats which passed through Lock No. 4, while on an inspection trip along the Monongahela river.

In keeping with Col. Walker's remarks, tonnage reports made during recent months have shown that traffic on the Monongahela river is growing so rapidly that radical improvements must be started by the government not later than next year to insure proper handling of the commerce to be had in the near future.

This is the principal reason for the survey of the Monongahela river as far as the Pennsylvania state line, which includes the first lock now being made. This survey is expected to be completed August 1.

The principal improvement contemplated is said to be the lengthening of the lock chambers at Lock No. 3. The present limit of the stream it is said would permit approximately 32,000,000 tons to be shipped through the canalized stream in a year. Because of the location of No. 3 it is considered the busiest and most vital part of the river. Shortening the lock chambers, be lengthened it is hoped that a far greater tonnage can be handled.

It is a foregone conclusion that large tracts of coal land, as yet untouched, will be opened for river transportation in the very near future. The Carnegie Steel company, with immense requirements, will be seeking greater tonnage, which can be supplied through its fuel subsidiary the Frick Coke company, which controls thousands of acres of coal land in this valley yet to be opened for commercial purposes. When this is done the tonnage is bound to be measurably increased, and the capacity of the present locks taxed to their capacity.

Notice P. H. C. Members. All members are urged to be present Friday evening June 18. Nomination of officers and other important business.

R. A. Council, President.

COMPANY A ALMOST AT MINIMUM STRENGTH

Company A, Tenth Regiment, located at Monongahela, is about reaching its minimum strength, and Capt. Gee is expected to wire for his inspection date in a few days. Tuesday evening the Company needed but ten more men to bring it up to the requirements of the State, and this number is expected to be recruited before the week is out. Company A is an old institution of Monongahela, having been originally mustered into the National Guard of Pennsylvania when it was organized in 1874. The Company, through all the changes that have been made in the Guard, has retained its old designation and honor that has not been given to every town represented in the Guard.
